Henry's Service Center sells more than equipment

Henry's Service Center will display its latest products at the Daily Gate City and Hancock County Journal-Pilot's Home and Leisure Show from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 28, at Sullivan Auctioneers, east of Hamilton on Highway 136.

The Bowen, Ill., business has been serving the community's mowing needs – and more – for the past 27 years.

Paul Henry opened Henry's Service Center in 1988, and his son Jason joined him as manager of the business. Henry's originated with the sales and service of agricultural equipment, but added Cub Cadet mowers when a local dealer closed in 2003 or 2004.

"We stay really busy throughout the year with ag equipment," Jason said. "That's probably 75 percent of our business."

In addition to Cub Cadet riding and push lawnmowers and lawn tractors, Henry's sells and works on Echo trimmers, chainsaws and blowers. Service is available for all makes and models, even those not purchased from Henry's.

Henry's is an authorized Modern Tool and Die service center, according to Jason.

"We don't only sell you a mower – you're getting service as part of your purchasing experience," he said.

Jason has noticed that most customers procrastinate when it comes to purchasing new or servicing existing equipment.

"During the first week of mowing season, we get about 20 calls," he said. "We have already sold a few this year."

The latest innovation from Cub Cadet – the zero-turn riding mower – was introduced several years ago, and other manufacturers are beginning to follow suit with their own renditions.

Residential Cub Cadet mowers come with a three-year parts and labor warranty, while commercial models are covered for four years.

"When you buy a mower, you should think about service," Jason said. "The more money you spend, the better the warranty terms."

Henry's Service Center is at 202 S. Worrel St., a block south of the four-way stop in Bowen. Business hours are 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays, and 8 a.m. to noon Saturday.
